The Society for Pedagogy, Information and Media “John Amos Co- menius” (GPI), a scientific society for educational media, multimedia, educational technology and mediadidactics, in 2020 for the 25th time presents the Comenius-EduMedia-Awards. With this award the GPI honours digital educational media of outstanding content and creative implementation. We accept submission of products intended for formal, non-formal and playful learning by digital media, fully or partly online or completely offline at all places of learning and education for all target groups from pre-school up to adult education.

The Comenius-Award is the only European media award independent of providers and producers. The published rating system stands for transparency of the award procedure.

This year we are looking back at 25 years of the Comenius-EduMedia-Award; a time during which a lot has been changing. CD-ROMs had been the highlights at the beginning; these have almost been completely replaced by online offerings and apps. And the development continues – learning in and with a digital world has not yet reached its climax with the progression of digitalisation. A lot is changing, one matter remains the same: The didactical theorems of John Amos Comenius (1592 - 1670), namesake of the award, including his guiding principle “to teach everything to everybody thoroughly, in the best possible way” (omnes omnia omnino excoli), still holds true.

At the initiative of Univ.-Prof. Dr. Dr. Gerhard E. Ortner, Dr. Bernd Mikuszeit and Dr. Ute Szudra the Comenius-EduMedia-Award was for the first time awarded 1995 during the 29th symposium of the Gesellschaft für Pädagogik, Information und Medien (GPI) at the Humboldt-University in Berlin. At that time the Gesellschaft für Pädagogik, Information und Medien (GPI), a scientific expert association for media didactics, multimedia, and digital educational technology, had been promoting the quality development and the application of digital educational media the for teaching and learning for 30 years already. After a couple of years already, the Comenius-Award became European. Meanwhile, enterprises, institutions, universities, and foundations from most European countries participate. Not least because of EU funding, the Comenius-EduMedia-Award has become one of the most important European awards for digital educational media – transparent, producer-independent, open-content.

With your keen participation you honour our work and likewise do we want to acknowledge your activities and its value by awarding the Comenius-EduMedia-Awards. We thank you for your faithfulness and your dedication and we hope to meet you again in this anniversary year or the many that we hope will follow.
